ORIX Novated Lease Calculator Assumptions

This Novated Lease Calculator uses a number of assumptions to provide you with an estimate of the Novated Lease cost and the potential savings from entering into such a lease. In most cases, a formal quote will be less expensive than the indicative quote because of ORIX's buying power and refinement of estimated maintenance costs. The assumptions used by this Novated Lease Calculator are set in the Terms & Conditions.

To enter into an ORIX Novated Lease, your employer must also have a relationship with ORIX. Please contact us or your HR department if unsure.

The Government has passed the Treasury Laws Amendment (Electric Car Discount) Bill 2022 to exempt non-luxury electric cars, including battery electric vehicles (BEVs) and hydrogen fuel cell electric vehicles (FCEVs), from Fringe Benefits Tax (FBT) when acquired via a novated lease, provided they are priced below the luxury car tax threshold ($91,387 for the 2024–25 income year) and first held and used on or after 1 July 2022.

While plug-in hybrid electric vehicles (PHEVs) were initially included in the exemption, this will no longer apply to new novated lease arrangements entered into on or after 1 April 2025. However, existing PHEV novated lease agreements made before this date will remain eligible for the FBT exemption for the duration of the lease.
